OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON, D. C. March 9, 1866.

On Friday March 2d the Senate passed the concurrent resolution asserting (in reply to the President's veto message) the power of Congress over the subject of reconstruction and announcing to the President and the country that representatives or Senators will not be admitted from any State which went into the rebellion till both bodies shall pass a resolution declaring the State (or States) in a condition to warrant the admission of members.

The debate which preceded the adoption of the resolution was interesting and important. I think the whole Senate was astounded at the threats of Garrett Davis, of Kentucky. He stated his opinion that if the opposition Senators saw fit to withdraw and meet with the Senators from the Southern States in another apartment, that the President would have the right to recognize that body as "the Senate of the United States!" Here we have another revolution gravely proposed by a Senator of the United States. Of course this was rant, but it shows what the Copperheads would like to do, and where they are endeavoring to draw the President.

The vote in the Senate on the concurrent resolution was significant. Just look at the list of nays: Buckalew, of Pennsylvania, Copperhead; Cowan, of the same State, deserter; Davis, of Kentucky, copperhead; Dixon, of Connecticut, deserter; Doolittle, of Wisconsin, deserter; Guthrie, of Kentucky, copper; Hendricks, of Indiana, very bad copper; Johnson, of Maryland, middle man; Lane, of Kansas, deserter; McDougall, of California, whisky sucker; Morgan, of New York, deserter; Nesmith, of Oregon, (how shall I classify him?) Norton, of Minnesota, deserter; Riddle, of Delaware, copper; Saulsbury, same State, deserter; Stewart, of Nevada, deserter; (I'm sorry to write it, but it's true;) Stockton, of New Jersey, copper; Van Winkle, of West Virginia, deserter. One Copperhead was absent, and two good Republicans, also. Now on the other hand, we have thirty one sound, able Republicans. One would suppose that any sane man, in doubt as to how to act would, be influenced somewhat by the candid, sound arguments of such men as Pitt Fessenden, John Sherman and Mr. Trumbull. But the deserters care more, apparently, for the President's "loaves and fishes" than for the sound arguments of Fessenden, Trumbull and Sumner.

Mr. Fessenden made a remarkable statement in the course of his closing speech, and I must give two or three paragraphs from it. He said:

"The President sent us an annual message in December in which he said that he had appointed provisional governors and proceeded a certain distance in the way of reconstruction, and that he left the question of the admission of Senators and Representatives to us. Did he send us any papers, any documents? Did he send us any information in relation to these States? He had it all. All the correspondence was with him. He had all the papers in his hands; he had all the telegraphic dispatches; he knew what these governors had done; he knew whether they had taken the oath; he knew everything connected with the subject, for he had all the papers. What did he do in answer to this call from the Senate? Did he tell us that it was not consistent with the public interest that we should have these papers or have the information? No, sir; he said not a thing, but he simply kept quiet.

From that day to this we have been waiting patiently, hoping that the President, who was so anxious to have us act on the matter, would furnish the information which he had and that no one else had in order to enable us to do so, but although three calls have been made upon him, one on the 5th of January by the Senate, on the 12th of January by the House of Representatives, and again on the 27th of February by the Senate, and we have not yet received this information.

Was there no reason for desiring these documents? Let us look at a fact or two. Whom did the President appoint as provisional governor of South Carolina? I am not complaining of his appointment; I am speaking of facts; he appointed Mr. Perry, who, as we all understand was a judge under the confederate government—I think that was the office he held. How do we know that he has been pardoned even? We have no proof of it. Look at Mississippi. What took place there? There were two candidates for Governor, one a Union man, the other a General Humphreys, covered all over with treason, who had been fighting through the whole war in the confederate army, and had risen to the rank of a brigadier general. He was nominated on the other side, and the newspapers stated (Mr. Sharkey can tell whether it is true or not) that Mr. Sharkey, the provisional governor there, gave notice in Mississippi that General Humphreys was not an eligible candidate, and votes would be thrown away upon him because he was not even pardoned. He was a traitor who had received no pardon and yet we are told that he has since been pardoned. Do we know it? Have we any proof of it? Do we know anything about it? Has the President furnished us any information with regard to it? For aught we know to-day the man who signed the credentials of the Senators from Mississippi, if they are here, is an unpardoned rebel, a man who served during the whole war against us.

Nobody will deny the truth of the statement, and it certainly involves a serious charge against the President. Why is it that he does not send the papers?

A friend of mine was at the State Department a day or two since, and had a long interview with Mr. Seward in reference to the present condition of the country. He was very much surprised to learn that Mr. Seward is if anything stronger in support of the doctrine of immediate admission of the rebellious States to representation than the President himself. My friend said to him "I am sorry to hear the avowal, for I had thought that you was more moderate than the President, and that you would help us in one way at least—in softening the President and restraining him from angry speeches."

Mr. Seward replied, "I am the author of this plan of restoration—I urged it upon Mr. Lincoln and he accepted it, I again urged it upon Mr. Johnson and he has accepted. So I say the country is safe. This is why I telegraphed him from New York that his speech was right and it saved the Union. I regarded his speech as committing him irrevocably to the doctrine of immediate admission."

My friend (a radical member of Congress) was greatly surprised at this, and replied with spirit, "Well, Mr. Seward, I have made an important discovery. If I had known your position I should not have stood here for a moment discussing the matter. I perceive that you are worse than the President. Indeed I believe you converted him from his views—those which he held last April and May—to the new set of opinions. I wish you a good morning!" So ended the interview.

The course of the Chronicle, Col. Forney's paper in this city, has excited much comment. For a long time it clung to the President and endeavored to prevent a quarrel. But when the veto came the paper came out bitterly against the President and has kept up a roaring fire against him ever since. But there was a secret history of the affair which is the key to the conduct of Col. Forney. The President has always treated him coolly, and strange to say, has been very intimate and friendly with the Intelligencer people. Yet the Chronicle was loyal through the war and the Intelligencer was fiercely Copperhead. The set of men in the Intelligencer office who two years ago sympathised with the rebellion are now the President's best friends. But it is said that worse than this is true—that Col. Forney, as Secretary of the Senate, had occasion to go to the President with a bill and there met one of the Copperheads of the Intelligencer and was treated disrespectfully. This was more than mortal flesh and blood could bear, and Col. Forney became convinced from that moment that the President's sympathies were with bad men and therefore that he could no longer endeavor to prevent a quarrel. Then it came out with a series of tremendous leaders attacking the President. Since then one more grand attempt has been made to save a quarrel and now the Chronicle is trying again to save the party from disruption. In this new attempt it ignores the President—says nothing about him one way or the other—but argues for a moderate policy for the sake of country and party. It is now on the right track I think and I am not at all sure but it is right in avoiding the name of the President. The future certainly will show but the present prospect is that Mr. Johnson will not stay long with the men who elected him.

Everybody here is looking forward anxiously to see how the elections will result in New Hampshire and Connecticut. I have good reasons for believing that the President is also deeply interested in them. He told Mr. Allen one of the editors of the Intelligencer of this city on Tuesday night that he regretted that Postmaster General Dennison had written a letter for publication taking ground in favor of the Republican ticket but it being done he said it was out of his power to do anything now—not even to remonstrate. The President's idea seemed to be that there shall be no interference from Washington one way or another but that the voters shall be left free to choose between the two platforms and tickets.

The position of the leading members of Mr. Johnson's Cabinet seems to be this: they will not resign: they for the most part agree with his policy of reconstruction, but they are determined not to go over to the enemy. If the President means to do it they will not follow him. So Mr. Dennison the Postmaster General, told a delegation from New Hampshire, that he was a Republican and wanted the Republican ticket elected, and when he couldn't take such a position he would go home to Ohio and quit politics. It was a brave assertion of his personal rights, and the Ohio Republicans will not forget him for it. The Republicans of New England, too, are grateful to him for his letter. Before you get this you will know the result in both States, but it may not be amiss to notice the deep anxiety here respecting the election results in those States.

Mr. Price from the select Committee on the Pacific Railroad has reported a bill granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the Central Pacific road in California to Portland in Oregon. He gives the "California and Oregon Railroad Company" the power to construct the road as follows:

"The said California and Oregon Railroad Company shall construct that part of the said railroad and telegraph within the State of California, beginning at some point, (to be selected by said company) on the Central Pacific railroad in the Sacramento valley, in the State of California, running thence northerly through Sacramento and Shasta valleys, to the northern boundary of the State of California; and the said Oregon company shall construct that part of the said railroad and telegraph line within the State of Oregon, beginning at the city of Portland, or at some point upon the navigable waters of the Columbia river in Oregon, (to be selected by said company,) and running thence southerly through the Willamette, Umpqua, and Rogue River valleys to the southern boundary of Oregon, the same shall connect with the part aforesaid to be made by the first named company. Provided, That the company completing its respective part of the said railroad and telegraph from either of the termini herein named to the line between California and Oregon before the other company shall have likewise arrived at the same line, shall have the right and the said company is hereby authorized, to continue in constructing the same beyond the line aforesaid, with the consent of the State in which the unfinished part may lie, upon the terms mentioned in this act, until the said parts shall meet and connect, and the whole line of said railroad and telegraph shall be completed."

I will not attempt to give all the details of the bill as they do not materially differ from those of similar bills. I do not know what chance the bill will have in the House but there is at present no reason for supposing that Congress will not treat the Pacific Coast in these matters with fairness and even generosity.

I hear as I close this letter that the Secretary of State begins to be somewhat alarmed at the Fenian excitement in this country, lest it shall drive men to commit acts with which the Government will have to interfere. There are fresh stories of a concocted movement upon Canada, as a sort of counter-irritant, but the more sensible and intelligent believe that the whole agitation will result in putting money into the pockets of a few leaders and getting a few crazy men into trouble in Ireland. The President and Mr. Seward are against any "overt act" upon our soil, and the reason why a proclamation has not been issued before this is because they regard the entire Fenian movement as a humbug. I have the best of reasons for saying this, though it might hurt the political prospects of the President to give his views as he has privately expressed them, especially as he of late seems to be swinging over to the other side for support.

STEAMER DAY.

SUPPORTS "MY POLICY."—Pollard, of Richmond, was permitted to continue the publication of the Examiner newspaper on condition that he would conduct himself as a loyal citizen and support the President's "policy." Pollard has fulfilled the latter part of the agreement. The very first issue of his paper after publication was resumed, was filled with the vilest abuse and most bitter denunciation of Congress. While Pollard continues on that track the President will let his paper alone.

The First Manifesto.

The "National Johnson party"—that is to say the party of office-holders, place-seekers, Copperheads, semi-rebels and full-blown traitors,—has issued its first official manifesto. It is well for the country that Johnson and his "party" have fallen into the hands of such defenders as those who have put forth this address. The character of these advocates—their known political affinities—their notorious lack of political integrity—their infidelity to the principles which some of them have hitherto professed—their opposition to the man who, in times past have been most highly honored and implicitly trusted by the nation—their innumerable political obliquities and vagaries, and their utter untrustworthiness—all these things are sufficient to condemn them forever before the honest and loyal people of the United States. The arguments they put forth are precisely what we might expect to emanate from men devoid of all integrity, and intent on fortifying their position by the free use of falsehood. The initial clause in the very first sentence of the address asserts the fundamental doctrine of Copperheadism. Its shameless, slanderous inveracity would awaken general indignation throughout the country, were the country not too well acquainted with the untruthful character of the authors of this address, to be affected by any slanders and falsehoods they may utter. The first official manifesto of the "Johnson party" begins with the declaration that "the war was precipitated on slavery." In other words, the North drove the South into rebellion; and the North being the aggressor, and the South the injured party, it follows that the latter, being guiltless, is not liable to penalty, and that the former, being the author of the war, must make reparation at once. The gentlemen who are making such vigorous efforts to form a "Johnson party" ought to have gone one step further, and not have stopped short of the logical conclusion to which their propositions lead. They should have demanded the immediate pardon of all the "injured" Southern leaders, and the punishment of those Northern men "who precipitated the war on slavery," as well of those who were the chief instruments in prosecuting the war to its [illegible].

As no penalties followed the great New England "rebellion" of 1807—15, they argue the leaders of the "Johnson party," no political or other disabilities are to be placed on those who engaged in the late war, insignificant Southern rebellion. The Hartford Convention which declared [illegible] that, "in case of deliberate, palpable infractions of the Constitution, affecting the sovereignty of a State and the liberties of the people, it is not only the right but the duty of such State to interpose its authority for their protection, in the manner best calculated to secure that end"—good Democratic doctrine and a repetition of Jefferson's [illegible] in 1798—a [illegible] Hartford Convention, an assemblage composed of twenty-six [illegible] is accredited by the fathers of the "Johnson party" to have been the only great treasonable organization that ever had an existence in the United States! The New England discontents of that period are, evidences of treason so rank and so foul as to entirely dwarf the late harmless and perfectly Constitutional scheme to overthrow the authority of the United States throughout more than half its territory! The great New England "rebellion" that ended in 1815, during which not a citizen was deprived of his liberty, nor a fort seized, nor a gun fired, nor the least indignity offered to the majesty or flag of the Republic, but which was nothing more from first to last than an earnest verbal protest against the policy of the Government then destructive of New England's interests, is cited by the office-holders and rebels' party as a crime equal in enormity to the late attempt of thirteen States to destroy the Union by force of arms, causing the sacrifice of near a million of the flower of our youth, the loss of ten thousand millions of money, and the increase of the public debt to a sum which will require the energies of two generations to pay. The fullest measure of the wrath and scorn of the "Johnson party" is bestowed on the little Hartford Convention, not one of whose members ever committed an action in violation of the Constitution; while excuses without number are offered for the treasonable conduct of the Southern rebels. Indeed on the hypothesis of these "Johnson" partisans the South is wholly innocent of wrong. We are surprised therefore that the authors of this "National address" should think it necessary to find any excuse at all for their Southern friends.

Daniel Webster in his day had some reputation as an expounder of the Constitution. In those times there were few who would have called him a traitor. Of course the new "Johnson party," including the President himself, would call him a traitor now. But Webster, who is still held as authority by many, made the following statement about the opinions of New England discontents. We quote from his speech in the House of Representatives, January 14th, 1814:

> The opposition of the minority of the Government is constitutional and legal. It is also conscientious. It rests in settled and sober conviction that such policy is destructive to the interests of the people and dangerous to the being of the Government. The experience of every day confirms these sentiments. Men who act from such motives are not to be discouraged by trifling obstacles, nor awed by any dangers. They know the limit of constitutional opposition—up to that limit at their own discretion they will walk, and walk fearlessly.

The difference between the Hartford Conventionists and the Secession Revolutionists of 1860-61, was this: The delegates of 1814 truly wished well for their country—the conspirators of 1860 were notoriously unscrupulous demagogues, who, on the ruins of the Union would erect a powerful slave-republic, which slave-owners should alone rule. The Hartford men would have changed the Constitution in a peaceful, legal way, without destroying the Republic—the revolutionists of 1860 spurned the Constitution and rejected the Union in any shape.

From the tone of the address of the "national Johnson party," it is evident that those who compose it differ in no particular from the Copperheads of to-day and of five years ago. All the talk that is going on about a "new national party" is simply an effort to revive the defunct Democratic organization which was buried under the load of its own treason during the progress of the slave-holders rebellion.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO APRIL 14.

Radical Triumph in Tennessee—Missouri Affairs.

CHICAGO, April 13.—The Tennessee House of Representatives had an exciting session yesterday, ending with the newly elected radical members being admitted in sufficient numbers to make a quorum. After this the Franchise bill passed by a constitutional vote. This bill relates only to white suffrage, but excludes rebels and rebel sympathizers under the most stringent penalties. The radical triumph was passed in defiance of the Speaker, who is a conservative and who, to prevent proceedings which would have driven him from the chair, elected the point and allowed a report from the committee on Elections to be received in favor of all claimants except the recent bolters. These were not admitted on the ground that their election was in contempt of the House. Some of the defeated radicals will be admitted on the revision of the poll list, excluding fraudulent votes.

The Court at St. Louis has decided that Judges Dryden and Bay of the Supreme Court of Missouri were properly removed from office by Gov. Fletcher, under an order of the Constitutional Convention, and that they have no claim for damages.

Private advices from Washington say the United States Supreme Court stood unanimously opposed to the ministerial test oath in the Missouri Constitution, and on the question of lawyer's oaths, five against the validity to four for it. Judge Field will write the opinion of the Court.

"Reconstruction" in Texas.

Governor Hamilton, of Texas, made a speech recently, in which he opposed some of those ordinances passed by the convention as not being republican, or meeting the demands made upon that body. They had passed but one ordinance which accorded fully with the President's policy, and that was the one declaring the war debt null and void. He appealed from the action of the convention to the people. The convention had passed an ordinance excepting all persons who, under authority of civil or military power, had inflicted injury on persons during the war from being held accountable. Such action would not and should not shield them. He called upon the loyal people of the State to work together. He believed provision should be made to admit the negro to vote if he was educated. The convention had refused this, and also refused to give the blacks any quota of the school fund or to make provision for their education. They had been taxed to assist in sending their children to school. He intended to denounce to the people those who had worked against the interests of the State.

Southern Journals Support Johnson's "Policy."

CHICAGO, April 13.—The Southern papers have vigorous articles on the Federal situation called out particularly by the civil rights bill. They counsel the people of the South to wait till Congress convenes and put all their trust in the President.

Murder in Philadelphia.

A shocking murder was discovered in Philadelphia last Wednesday afternoon, April 11th. Christopher Deering, his wife, four children, niece and servant boy, in all eight persons, were found to have been killed under circumstances showing hellish brutality in the use of weapons. Deering was a man of moderate means, living on a small farm in the lower part of the city, and it is supposed the murder was committed by a German laborer four days before its discovery. The motive was not apparent.

Interesting News from Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Senator Cowan has begun wielding the axe which he boasts he has power to use against the Pennsylvania radicals. The most prominent feature of the scheme is to turn Radicals out of office and supply their places with soldiers.

Gen. Joseph F. Knipe has been nominated for Postmaster of Harrisburg. It is also understood that Ex-Governor Wm. F. Johnson, who made a speech here last week in support of the President, has been appointed Collector of the Internal Revenue at Pittsburg.

Judge Peabody waited on the President to-day and asked a pardon for T. C. A. Dexter, late Treasurer at Mobile, now under sentence of a court martial, or at least for some assurance that the habeas corpus might be invoked under the Peace Proclamation. The President informed the Judge that the proclamation was simply a declaration of policy, and was not intended to declare the termination of martial law in the Southern States.

Gen. Howard has written a long letter to Eliot, of the House Select Committee on the Freedmen's affairs, urging legislation with respect to the Freedmen's Bureau, to define its powers. He points out that the period for its continuance should be definitely fixed. It should be declared by law whether Maryland and Kentucky are or are not, included within the jurisdiction of the bureau. Lands should be set apart on favorable terms. Such an act, if signed by the President, would give great satisfaction.

National Asylum for Disabled Soldiers.

A joint resolution has passed the House, and is now pending in the Senate, appointing the following managers of the national asylum for disabled soldiers: Gov. R. J. Oglesby, of Illinois; Benj. F. Butler, of Massachusetts, and Gov. Frederick Smith, of New Hampshire—to serve six years; Lewis B. Garrickle, of Ohio, Jay Cooke, of Pennsylvania, and P. J. Osterhaus, of Missouri, to serve four years; John H. Morlindale, of New York, Horatio G. Stebbins, of California, and Geo. H. Walker, of Wisconsin, to serve two years.

A Speech from Schuyler Colfax.

CHICAGO, April 13.—Speaker Colfax, in responding to a serenade at Washington, on Tuesday evening, the 10th inst., said that he was prouder than ever of the great Union party since the Civil Rights Bill passed. He believed that the law would never be repealed, and would in future years be the proudest recollection of those supporting it. We are sometimes asked—we know with what solicitude the people regarded it—why the work was delayed. I answer, it has not been by the President. During eight months before the assembly of Congress he was engaged in collecting testimony, comparing opinions and maturing action to lay a sure foundation for Union, peace and prosperity. Congress by its test oath and by declaring that the electoral votes of any State that had been in the rebellion should not be counted, had already indicated the policy to be adopted and fully in view of their future reconstruction, had plainly indicated to the rebels, one right to declare the qualifications of both individuals and States. My regret is that Congress was not called together early last summer in order that Congress and the President might have acted together as they doubtless would have done in harmony; but the President deemed it inexpedient to convene Congress and went on alone. I believe he entered upon and proceeded with the work patriotically, and that he thought as an experiment it would be well to test it before Congress met. I am confirmed in this belief by the messages which he sent to the governors of Florida and Mississippi telling them that restoration would depend on Congress. As an experiment, however, I don't think it resulted in developing their loyalty. When Congress assembled it appointed a committee to examine the condition of the South. Congress alone could legalize what the President had done, but it had no official information from him concerning what he had done during the recess. This information, after repeated calls, was received only one short month ago. You will ask, what is my policy of reconstruction. I answer, it is the policy laid down by Andrew Johnson, with such emphasis and earnestness in his speeches between June, 1864, and May, 1865, that the loyal men shall govern the preserved Republic.

Address from the National Johnson Committee.

CHICAGO, April 13th.—The National Johnson committee, of which Montgomery Blair is President, publishes a lengthy address in the National Intelligencer on the 11th. They say the war having been precipitated on slavery, and its results acquiesced in by the vanquished, nothing more should be demanded. The argument proceeds upon the idea that the quasi rebellion of a portion of New England in 1812, did not involve the people of that section in the pains and penalties for having adhered to the enemy, and to a certain extent giving them aid and comfort, so also the Southern people should not now be proscribed for like acts, but rather should be treated with compassion, kindness, forgiveness and pardon. But now, the address proceeds, the tables are turned, and there is no such allowance for the people of the South, who were under duress while conspirators were establishing absolute jurisdiction over them. While the leading men in the Administration were going out and coming in at Washington, both North and South united in negotiations with that usurpation to acknowledge peace and amity with it as the result of the meditated and accomplished revolution; and this is confirmed by the promise of the Premier that the United States stronghold in Charleston harbor should be surrendered to that usurping government, and thus the Union men of the South had no alternative but submission to treason. What right has the National Government now to hold these men subject to penalties for acquiescing in their enforced condition more than it had to hold the citizens of Maine liable to punishment after the war of 1812. These districts found no difficulty after the war was over in getting representation in Congress. There was no test oath to exclude them; indeed, even the condition of the people was not questioned by our Government further than to draw from the Federal Courts a decision that submission to a power that could not be resisted, rendered treasonable acts justifiable, why should the conspirators of the Calhoun junta bring greater punishment on its innocent victims than did that of the Essex junta and its Hartford Convention? The scheme of each was equally criminal—a dissolution of the Union, but the means of the latter were much more insidious, for a foreign force was introduced into the heart of the country hostile to all the essential principles of our Republic. Is there no atonement in the calamities falling to the masses of the South, which submitted to a despotism which would never have been put over them had not the treachery and collusion of our national government assisted? Nothing in the utter ruin which succeeded the invasion of our armies to plead for justice and generosity to victorious war, guiltless themselves of its provocation? But now the whole radical party, have assumed the anti-constitutional doctrine that States put in abeyance by rebellious spirit shall only be recognized when they submit to terms prescribed by Congress, and thus attains the point to which the Essex junta, the high-flying Federalists of the North, would at the beginning have fixed the power of the great government's whole policy. This aristocratic body of politicians has ever been and is now endeavoring to consolidate supreme power in Congress. It is obvious from the course of Congress that it means to maintain its power in the government, its tyranny over the South by the new use to which the African population is to be converted. Congress is now a revolutionary convention. The President in his 22d of February speech adopted the motto, "I stand to-day prepared, as far as I can, to resist these encroachments upon the constitution and government."

Pennsylvania Legislature—Sen. Cowan Requested to take a Back Seat.

CHICAGO, April 14th.—The Pennsylvania Legislature adjourned yesterday, the Senate having previously elected Lewis W. Hall of Blair county, Speaker, to preside at the next session. Both Houses passed a resolution requesting Senator Cowan to resign.

Gov. Morton arrived at Home.

Governor Morton arrived at Indianapolis on Thursday, and will resume his executive duties. He has gained a little, but walks with more difficulty than formerly. He left home last November.

Tennessee Affairs.

Two more radical members were admitted into the Tennessee Legislature yesterday. Governor Brownlow has transmitted a message, giving his reasons for having declared the seats of the bolting members vacant, and alluding to the election to fill the vacancies, he says: The result may well excite apprehensions, as the franchise law of June, 1865, was almost totally disregarded, and in framing the new law, the question should not be who shall be disfranchised, but who enfranchised. In a crisis like this, we should take no tame course.

Congressional.

CHICAGO, April 13.—The Senate on Tuesday confirmed Albert J. Lowry Postmaster at Placerville; John Lyttle Postmaster at Downieville.

In the vote on the Bankrupt bill in the House on Tuesday, Mr. McRuer voted with the ayes, and Messrs. Bidwell, Ashley, Henderson and Rigby with the noes. An analysis of the vote shows that the bill was supported by New England men and representatives of the commercial interests of New York and Pennsylvania including Democrats and was opposed by the Western Delegation, Thad. Stevens, Morrill & Co.

The Senate elected as the Committee to whom was referred Mr. Sherman's bill to incorporate a National Telegraph Company, Messrs. Sherman, Clark, Harris, Brown and Nesmith.

A petition for the establishment of a port of entry at Wilmington California, was presented by Mr. Conness on Monday and referred to the committee on commerce.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—In the House Mr. Washburn, of Illinois, offered a resolution which was adopted, instructing the committee on commerce to inquire what legislation if any, was necessary to prevent the introduction of cholera.

Mr. Higby from the committee on mines, reported back the resolution recommending the removal of the U. S. Branch Mint from Charlotte, North Carolina, to Boise City, Idaho, and asked it to be referred to the committee on ways and means, and it was so ordered.

Mr. Rousseau, from the military committee, reported back the bill granting land in Oregon to build a military road. The bill was discussed and reconsidered. The House then proceeded to consider the bill reorganizing the army. Several amendments were offered, and after reaching the section relative to the cavalry arm the bill was laid over till Monday, and the House adjourned.

In the Senate Mr. Williams called up the bill to prevent the absence of Territorial officers, which was a source of great evil. Judges, Governors and Secretaries absent themselves for six months, to visit Washington and the Eastern States.

FROM THE NORTH.

Fenian Excitement—The "Reliable" Big Bend Miner Heard from Again.

NEW WESTMINSTER, April 14.—The usual monotony in New Westminster from drum existence was somewhat disturbed yesterday by the arrest and imprisonment of Thomas Cafferty, keeper of a hotel on Front street, known as Head Quarters. It appears that during Thursday night a signboard bearing the ominous word Fenian had been placed over the original sign of the hotel, making it read "Fenian Head Quarters." The circumstance having come to the knowledge of the Chief of Police, an officer was sent to wait upon Cafferty with the polite request that the treasonable addition should be removed. Mr. Cafferty declined to comply with this request, and was taken before the chief of police, and in default of bail on his good behavior, to be sentenced to three months imprisonment, while the offending board was removed.

The steamer California was seen nearing Victoria harbor as the Enterprise left yesterday morning. She appeared to be crowded with passengers. The steamers Reliance and Lillooet arrived from Yale yesterday, bringing news from the interior confirmatory of the rich strikes in Carnes and French creeks. The information from all parts appears to be of the most buoyant and encouraging character. Roads are open and traveling is excellent, while both men and provisions are rushing towards our exciting and attractive new mines. Immigrants need hesitate no longer. The country is now ready to receive all that will come, and do well by them, too. The Hon. Mr. Haines has received a semi-official letter from Osoyos, dated April 1st, from which we have been permitted to make the following extract: "Fourteen white men and forty Chinamen are mining on Rock creek. Randall & Co., at the crossing, have struck good diggings. Randall told me himself that he washed 100 buckets of dirt and got eleven dollars. There is quite a stir here about it." The letter goes on to say that owing to the excitement men who had engaged to work on the roads had determined to leave for the diggings. The crossing alluded to is six miles higher up the stream than the diggings hitherto known as Rock Creek, and goes far to establish the fact that the Rock Creek mines are richer and far more extensive than was supposed.

A new paper has been started at Yale, B. C., by Mr. Geo. Wallace, ex-editor of the Cariboo Sentinel. It is called the British Columbia Tribune. The first number appeared on the 10th inst.

SOMETHING NEW AND NOVEL.—A PATENT APPLIED FOR.—Mr. HENDEE has invented an article by which he can take any number of Head Pictures on the same plate without the subject getting up from the chair; can get different positions of the face and all sizes of heads, can put a half dozen heads on the space of a half dollar; can put a whole family of heads on a common sized card, and will sell pictures cheaper than any other Gallery on this coast. Has the process for taking the new and beautiful style picture called the Porcelain or Sun Pearl, so much talked of in San Francisco, also has engaged a man from that place who has been making those pictures in San Francisco.

Mr. H. is now prepared to do as good work and in as great variety of style as any Gallery in Portland. Orders for full portrait size of photograph will be promptly attended to. ap10d1ptf

NATURAL HISTORY.—For years past the Gallery of Messrs Buchtel & Cardwell in this city has been a cabinet for collections of rare specimens in Natural History. Mr. Buchtel retiring, established himself on Morrison street, while Dr J. R. Cardwell retains his interest and, in connection with Mr Ellsworth, formerly of San Francisco, continues at the old establishment, which is known as Cardwell's Gallery. The collections of specimens will continue, and between the two galleries at this time there is a valuable and extensive cabinet. ... Mr B has just received a very rare specimen from Montana of an animal which naturalists term the Glutton. It resembles very much the Ratel, a plantigrade animal of the badger family, but is much larger in size. This is full grown apparently, and measures three feet six inches in length, and is about eighteen inches in height. It is found in India, where it is the dread ..., and it also inhabits portions of Africa. It is occasionally seen in the northern part of America. Authors vary respecting the habits of the Carcajou. They ... say that it ascends trees and drops on the back of any unfortunate deer that happens to pass beneath, and that having secured its prey it never leaves it until the last morsel is consumed. It seldom fails to bring down prey that it hunts, following it many miles at a slow persevering pace. It is very troublesome to trappers, robbing traps of bait and destroying the game, and while its hide is valuable, yet its mischief more than counterbalances the profit. The specimen is a valuable addition to the collection of Mr Buchtel. Many rare specimens have been added to Cardwell's Gallery since last year. One, which is of particular interest, was added last week, being a toad brought from San Francisco, preserved in spirits, said to have been taken from a wall of the Tower of Babel alive, but which died on account of its exposure to the sun. If our neighbors continue their researches for a length of time similar to that they have been doing so, they will certainly have a most invaluable list of curiosities in Natural History.

IRON MONOPOLY.—It is asserted that one firm in San Francisco controls the pig-iron market of this coast. They have a stock on hand valued at more than a quarter of a million dollars. They recently purchased all that was in the hands at Victoria at an advance of from $8 to $10 per ton, and now hold their stock firmly at an advance of from $10 to $15 per ton. This illustrates one of the shrewd tricks of business men on the Pacific. Had we the works for utilizing the inexhaustible supply of raw material about Portland the monopolists would have poor success in turning their attention to this branch of business, or retarding the material interests of the whole coast. Any one can see what disadvantages must arise from the policy pursued in this matter by the shrewd. But, without viewing the iron interests of Oregon from such a stand point, it is very readily perceived that we require smelting furnaces here to supply our own home demand. The import duties paid in Oregon on iron for the year ending June 30th 1864, as we see by the report of Congress for that year, amounted to $36,798. Then we had not half the number of establishments in the State that there are at the present time, and the imports from San Francisco were not taken into account. With the present demand, no doubt, the duties for one year on pig iron consumed in this State would more than doubly pay the cost of erecting furnaces of capacity to supply the want and leave a surplus. Capital is urgently needed for this purpose.

ASSAULT ON A COLLECTOR.—District Attorney Hodgkin returned from Oregon City on Saturday last, where he had been attending to important suits of the State before the Court. Two brothers named Tucker, Democrats we learn incidentally, who undertook to carry out the ... of their party, brutally assaulted Deputy Sheriff Vandervert, who had been appointed by Sheriff ... of Clackamas county to collect taxes. The collector applied to them at their farm for the purpose of receiving the taxes; one brother paid his and took a receipt, but upon presenting the question to the other brother he ... refused to pay unless the officer would knock off the mileage. This the officer could not do, when the contemptible fellows pitched upon him, and fully extorted a receipt before they would allow him to escape alive. On arriving at Oregon City the matter was made public, and the less culpable brother was arrested. The other ... of the outrage is still at large, but cannot ... escape arrest long. The one tried was fined to the full extent of the law for his participation in the matter. ... exciting case was tried in which a free fight at a school meeting was examined in to. The two belligerents ... named Parmeter and Thompson, were fined and costs to the amount of nearly $75.

FROM MONTANA.—"Cy" Newcombe, well known ... in this city, recently went to Montana, and gives a rose colored picture of the virgin Territory in a letter to the ... Appeal. He has seen the elephant and is delighted with it. Hear him: "First, I have seen a very large amount of gold dust, and this country is supported by the amount taken from the ground. The merchants are all making their fortunes, and gambling and ... flourish. I have seen the richest quartz leads that can be found in the world, both gold and silver. The placer diggings are yet in their infancy. New discoveries are made weekly, and ... will be taken out this year. Thousands of ... left for the States last fall, all to return and bring more with them. There are ... of gulches that are yet unprospected. The whole Rocky ... are one vast miners' deposit. Mines so far pay in the pan from 5 cents to $10, and higher. ... to give a correct estimate of the average, ... a day is considered very ordinary. The mines extend ... of miles in all directions. Water and timber in abundance. Grass the year round. Climate—a fine! Take it altogether it is better than ... Game and fish in abundance. Wages ... $75 to $150; laborers, $6 to $10 per day ... $10 to $18 per week, according to the man's ... and taste."

... That Portland presents a good ... it ..., cannot be denied, and that ... that class of work is to be done the present season. The contractors for the First street improvement ... that they intend working two gangs of men, and will run both north and south from ... street, getting the contract before the Fourth of July. Front street will be completed, very likely also Pine street, before the first day of September. The various streets now being McAdamised, will ... by the first of May. It is not decided as yet, what will be done with Second street. We think in less than two years Second will be a business street, and if so, it ought not to be McAdamised, and this opinion is prevalent among the property owners. ... being well improved, but a citizen remarked ... yesterday, that to look at it from Fifth street, made him sick on account of the rise and fall of the sidewalk, which was about as abrupt as the waves of old ocean.

... A large number of new schooners are fitting out in this city for voyages from points along ... coast ... mining ... Several ... were shipped to Umatilla last week that arrived ... where they were formerly employed in freighting over the Sierra Nevada mountains. Teamsters can find an abundance of profitable business in this section of country and we are fully satisfied that they do not lay aside their present ... and come here. There is no place that can equal Oregon, at the present day, on top of earth. ... You are bound to win, and you are wanted here.

... —A private dispatch received ... forwarded from New York City ... P. M., by a personal friend, ... Company's steamship Oregonian ... morning. A perfect success." This is the ship building for the Portland and San Francisco trade by Messrs. D. F. Bradford, Ladd and others. ... to our people to know that the new steamship is in a state of forwardness. While we have no ... that the opposition steamer now running ... bought off, it is well that we have a ship ... Oregon, and this will be the case with ... near New York, on Saturday last.

... —The screw steamer Commodore Perry was launched at Milwaukie on Saturday, and was brought to this city in the afternoon. The new craft is ... with 12 feet beam, and 5 feet depth of hold. Her engines will be of seven inch cylinder with ... the propeller 44 inches in diameter. She was built for John H Perry & Co., the extensive ... contractors, to be used in towing ... loaded with material.

... —Mr. J. W. Stevens has just finished the new County Court House, in the shape of a ... model, made to conform to the dimensions of the building in every particular on a scale of 1-12 of an inch to one foot. The model is really artistic, and may be seen by all lovers of displayed genius, at the establishment of C. H. Myers, 110 First street. The size of the ... structure is 9 inches from the base to the crown of the dome.

... —Mr Hensler of the photograph gallery on Washington street, in Parrish's building, has invented a somewhat novel method of taking pictures which will be of great benefit to artists, inasmuch as it will enable them to take, in an ordinary camera, as many ... as they desire at one sitting of the subject, from which to print the pictures. We have seen it tried and find it at once both simple and effective. We are surprised that it was never thought of before. He has applied for a patent for his invention. Read his advertisement.

THE FAIR THIS EVENING.—We have been requested to ... it was accidental that the matter was not ... on Friday, so as to appear in Saturday's issue—that the ladies who propose giving the Fair and Soda ... at Turn Verein Hall this evening will be thankful for ... for that ... Articles will be received at the Hall today after 9 o'clock a. m.

COMING STEAMERS.—We have received no definite information concerning the departure of the Oregon ... from San Francisco, but suppose the Montana and Orizaba to have both left on Saturday. The line worked very hard on Saturday, and our dispatches which were obtained this morning were obtained with great difficulty yesterday.

THE EMIGRATION TO OREGON.—In conversation with persons from various portions of the country East, and ... we have been informed that the people of Oregon have but a slight conception of the emigration that is coming this way. Oregon is all the talk in the New England and many of the Middle States.

... —We met a young man from Vancouver last ..., who, strange to say, had no specimens from the new mines about his person. He explained by saying that he left them at home by mistake.

TRANSFORMATION.—We observe that grass is starting quite lively through the freshly McAdamized portions of Washington street.

EARLY VEGETABLES.—Housekeepers found in the market on Saturday last, fresh Oregon onions, Oregon radishes and Oregon turnips.

THE STEAMER SIERRA NEVADA will leave for San Francisco this afternoon, as advertised in this paper.

State Items

We learn that a few days since, quite a number of the inhabitants of "Horse Heaven," a sort of an independent republic situated in Clackamas county, got into a dispute about school district matters which finally ripened into a revolution and a subsequent squelching. Several of the parties were before Judge Moore at Oregon City, on Friday, and three of them were mulcted, one in the sum of fifty dollars and two in twenty-five dollars each. It is said that politics was at the bottom of the disgraceful affair.

An extensive sale of school lands has been ordered by the County Court in Linn county, to take place on the 2d day of May next. The lands are not to be sold for less than $1 25 per acre, but they are likely to bring much more than that, comprising as they do some valuable tracts. We notice too that several farms in Linn county are advertised to be sold on private terms.

The Circuit Court for Benton county, was in session last week, Stratton, Judge. Of eleven cases reported by the Corvallis Gazette, four were suits for divorce, and all successful.

The agent for the trustees of Philomath College, Corvallis, announces that a permanent endowment of $20,000 has been secured to the institution by donations and that nearly sufficient funds have been collected for the erection of a good college building. The greater portion of the work is already under contract. A sale of lots belonging to the college corporation is to take place on the 5th of May, at Corvallis.

Silas Newcomb, many years ago a resident of Oregon, but now of Faribault, Rice county, Minnesota, desires correspondence from Oregon, stating "how Oregon of 1866 compares with Oregon from 1850 to 1857." He writes that many of his Minnesota friends contemplate emigrating to this State if they can obtain reliable information of its present condition and inducements. Who will write?

Gov Gibbs has appointed Green C. Patton to a 2d Lieutenancy in the Oregon Cavalry. Patton enlisted as a private in Co. "E" at Salem in 1861, and, by honorable and faithful service, has risen through the non commissioned grades to a commission. We know him well and think the promotion both richly deserved and well bestowed.

F. D. Holman, of Columbia county, has been appointed a Notary Public for that county.

A VEXED QUESTION SETTLED.—We believe Jimmy O'Meara avers that his true name is simply "James O'Meara, Esq." and not James Dennis, Dennis O'Meara, nor James Dennis O'Meara, nor "any other man," as has been stated at various times by parties who thought they had known him in days of auld lang syne. We consider the question settled by the N. Y. Citizen, Miles O'Reilley's paper, which contains the following notice of him, among other printers who found their way to the Pacific coast some twelve or fifteen years ago:

Another compositor from the Globe office, D. J. O'Meara, became part [owner] with General Winchester in the Pacific News, and at a later date escaped being elected to the United States Senate from Oregon.

So, it seems, Jimmy, up to the time of leaving New York, was Dennis James O'Meara, without any "Esq." dangling about him. Will Dennis still deny the soft impeachment?

THE BULLETIN "HAS WEAKENED."—The San Francisco Bulletin, hitherto a very radical adherent of President Johnson as against Congress in passing the Civil Rights bill over the veto, has very sensibly "weakened." In its issue of the 7th inst., it concludes a moderately toned article on the subject, thus:

Whatever may be the result of the clashing between Congress and the Executive, the ridiculousness of following blindly, Stevens, Sumner and Wade, or the President, must be apparent; for neither party is likely to be always right or always wrong. By the veto of the Freedmen's Bureau bill, it is probable that the country has been saved from a great and glaring evil, which goes to the credit of the President; but it is manifest that some sort of a "Civil Rights bill" was necessary for the protection of liberated slaves.

Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try the celebrated

Which are now recommended by the highest medical authorities, and warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure, and must supersede all other tonics where a healthy, gentle stimulant is required.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate.

They create a healthy appetite.

They are an antidote to change of water and diet.

They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours.

They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.

They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.

They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.

They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.

They cure Diarrhea and Cholera Morbus.

They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.

They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. For particulars, see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.

Beware of impostors. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. Stamp unmutilated over the cork, with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in Bulk, is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles, &c., who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

A View of Oregon.

[Correspondence of the Sacramento Union]

SALEM, (Or ,) March 13, 1866

Thinking that a brief epistle from this section of the coast would be serviceable in your columns I submit the following to the consideration of your readers

Within the known history of Oregon no such state of improvement has been known within her boundaries as has been known within her boundaries as has characterized her development in manufacture, agriculture and mineral wealth during the past two years Heretofore Oregon has been held by a class of money searching, roving individuals who lured by visions of vast mineral wealth, have sought her shores, and after eating the bitter fruits of disappointment have settled as a last resource upon her soil—not to cultivate and agriculturally improve the State, but to hold those sections until the increase of population raised the value of their lands to a fortune, or at least to a good round sum Thus agriculture the main basis of a well formed State, was, by those idle speculators made a drawback rather than an improvement to its wealth But Eastern capitalists and more stable citizens turned the course of her mighty water power to driving manufacturing and mechanical machinery The idle soil was made to do its duty in the grand scheme of making Oregon a well founded State. Where once the clang of the "prospector's" woke the echoes of her glens, now the hum and clatter of machinery drowns the weaker voice of nature

Probably no place to-day affords such an extensive field to the speculator and capitalist as this little State In nearly every county immense water power enough to run all the Lowell factories, course through the loamy and productive soil. Coupled with agriculture and stock growing, to which it affords every facility, no better opening to the moneyed man could be desired. To the farmer, especially, no better road to wealth could be found. Here is rich and productive soil, which at present figures at rather a low price per acre, a ready market and a high price for all his produce. All the Idaho country, with its vast concourse of people, are to be fed from this State and California, and certainly any farmer could raise his productions and get a better price for them than can be got in California, because these mines are at our doors And we claim rich mineral wealth within our own limits—those of Santiam, though not so rich and extensive as the fabled Eldorado or even the more certain Gould & Curry, yet by calculations made by practicable and reliable miners, since the quartz machine has got in operation, it is said that they will declare handsome dividends for the stock holders.

Politically, Oregon is vastly Union, although the few stragglers of the defunct Confederacy think that a sufficient influx of the "chivalrous brethren" has been made to pack the next election, which is held in June; and although a great amount of Lee's paroled Democrats and Idaho cutthroats have been imported, in sufficient numbers to materially strengthen their withering party, yet there is serious doubts whether this addition will over balance the 1,500 majority given for Lincoln at the last election, and besides the Union emigrants who have since this election come into the State.

The greatest want felt by this young State is a good railroad running from the terminus of the great Pacific Railroad to some suitable point in the Willamette valley. Though the capitalist may have strong doubt as to whether the dividends declared by such a railroad company would be sufficient to pay a good interest on the capital invested, yet we would inform such a person that not only the State of Oregon would be supplied by such a company, but all the mines of Idaho, and all the merchandise which is now shipped by such a roundabout way by ocean steamers to Portland would be transported over its roads And again, such a quick and efficient method of passage and transportation would tend in every way to produce emigration and otherwise improve the State, so that in a few years the amount of freight necessary for such a population would ably support any railroad company. Of the practicability of building this road, I can only refer the reader to surveys of different engineers, who all unite in saying there is but one bad point of importance on the whole route. This is Rogue River Canyon, in the southern part of the State, and even here a grade can be obtained at a great deal less labor and cost than some which are being plowed through the stubborn Sierra Nevada, in the grand scheme of the Pacific Railroad.

But it is no use to argue the question, When the great overland railroad is completed, the influx of people will demand a California and Oregon Railroad, and such an improvement will be made, and we can only say that the first capitalists that take this measure into consideration and consummate this scheme will have the power and monopoly for years to come.

GEN. BUTLER AND THE NEW ORLEANS GOLD. —The statements that have been going the rounds of the Copperhead press that Gen. Butler had been obliged to deliver over to Smith & Co., of New Orleans, the sum of $80,000 in gold, seized by him while in command of the Department of the Gulf, together with interest, poundage, sheriff's fees and costs, are totally untrue. The facts are briefly these:

"General Butler seized the sum of $80,000 in gold upon the ground that the same was the property of the United States Mint at New Orleans. This was denied by Smith & Co., who claimed the same as their own private property, and brought suit for the recovery thereof. Some three weeks since, ex-Judge Pierpont, counsel for the plaintiffs, wrote the General that his clients were satisfied that he (the General) had reasonable grounds for making the seizure, was fully justified in his course, and that if he would satisfy them that the gold had not been sold or speculated with, but had been religiously held intact, and deliver it to them, they would receipt therefor in full, make no demand for interest or costs, and pay his counsel fees. General Butler replied that as he was now a citizen, and had for three years held this money subject to the order of the Government, who had never made a decision in the matter, he should accept their offer. Accompanying their letter, he sent proof of the fact that the money was, and been since its seizure, in a bank in Boston. This proving satisfactory to the plaintiffs, an order was forwarded to the bank to turn over the money to them, and full receipts were exchanged. Not a dollar more than the exact sum seized was either asked or given, while the claimants admitted in writing that the seizure was justified by the information in the hands of the General"

THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET.—The Vancouver Register makes the following remarks on the ticket which the Democrats have put in nomination in this State

The nominee for Governor is a gentleman against whom personally, little will be said, [we fear the Register has not heard of Kelly's Oregon City speech.—ED OREGONIAN] but he is a very unfortunate gentleman in his political aspirations. He is too slow of foot, and always manages to come out behind. It will be utterly impossible for him to carry Fay and O'Meara. They are not large men, to be sure, and the Colonel is large, but their small clothes are weighed down with a tremendous amount of radical secession. It is enough to say that the nominee for Secretary of State is a brother of "Colonel John Lane," who by "meritorious conduct" won his rank in the Confederate army, at the same time that Lafayette was winning his rank in the Confederate reserve. They have both fought in the same service. John has hung up his sword in his father's log cabin, and on the evening of the first Monday of June Lafayette will hang up his "aspirations" by its side

HON. S. E. MAY.—The Yreka Journal thus notices the Union candidate for Secretary of the State of Oregon:

Hon. Sam E. May, the present talented and efficient Secretary of State of Oregon, has been nominated by the Union party of that State for the same office for another term The Union men of Oregon have cause for congratulation that the ranks of the Union party contain a man so true to the cause of freedom as Mr May, and one so eminently qualified for the honorable and responsible position for which he has been placed in nomination; and while the indications show that the struggle between the Unionists and Copperheads at the June election will be desperate and close, there is little room to doubt that the patriotism, ability and sterling integrity of Mr. May will result in the discomfiture of his rebel opponent and his own triumphant election.

ON BOTH SIDES.—In view of the President's veto, the following explicit statement by the extremely conservative Washington correspondent of the extremely conservative Cincinnati Commercial, becomes interesting:

"The Bureau bill was originally prepared by Gen Howard, and revised in consultation with Senator Trumbull. It was then submitted to the President who examined it with considerable care, and approved it cordially"

That is from a letter dated Feb 12—seven days before the veto

ANOTHER MISTAKE CORRECTED —The Portland editor that lost the buttermilk wager says he didn't bet a "pint," only a "gill." Now we thought he couldn't possibly run his concern on that amount of capital so we concluded it must be another mistake of his printer. However, as he says it is "only a gill," only a gill it is. He sends it over to us daily by the teaspoonful.—Vancouver Register.

DEATH OF A DISTINGUISHED HORSE —The Santa Rosa, Sonoma county Democrat relates that Boston, Jr., son of old Boston, and half brother to Lexington, Lancet, Red Eye and others, which have stood at the head of the racing calendar in America, ended his earthly career upon the ranch of Joseph Wright, near that place, about two weeks since

Condition of Tennessee

The joint resolution in favor of the admission of the Tennessee delegation to Congress was reported to the House of Representatives, March 5th, by the Reconstruction Committee The report of the Committee is accompanied by voluminous testimony, the material part of which is as follows

TESTIMONY OF GENERAL HATCHER.

General Hatcher testified that East Tennessee is loyal, but West Tennessee as disloyal as Mississippi, and added that "East Tennessee is the only part of the State from which the troops can be withdrawn with safety"

TESTIMONY OF GENERAL THOMAS

General Thomas testified as follows

"I have studied the condition of affairs in Tennessee pretty carefully and have practical demonstrations of the condition of affairs there, having, in addition to information I have derived from personal observation, such information as I have received from other sources The Union sentiment in Tennessee, of course, has been sufficient to place the State in its present favorable condition towards the Government, and if protected and encouraged by the presence of a small Union force it will gain complete ascendancy in the State in the course of a year or two, I do not think it would be safe at this time to remove the National troops from Tennessee, or to withdraw martial law, or to restore the writ of habeas corpus to its full extent

* * * Personal animosities would break out and overawe civil authorities but for the presence there of the troops of the United States In West Tennessee these personal animosities exist even more strongly than in Middle Tennessee and there is less in West Tennessee than there is in Middle Tennessee The people of Tennessee desire very much—it is their strongest desire to be back in the United States. Still while they wish to enjoy the rights of citizenship, they are not friendly toward Union men, particularly men from Tennessee, unfriendly to Union men, natives of the State of Tennessee, or of the South who have been in the Union army, than those of Northern birth."

General Thomas further stated that the Union men of West Tennessee are still in a minority, but that public sentiment there is gradually approaching a loyal standard, and that "the people of Tennessee will go on improving in their Union sentiment, provided they are prevented from running to extremes against their personal enemies in the Union ranks; the presence of troops there is necessary, simply to prevent them from committing excesses and being led astray in their private animosities." The condition of the freedmen is favorable. The General added that, for the present it would be dangerous either to remove the national troops, to restore the writ of habeas corpus, or to abolish martial law in Tennessee.

The General, having been requested to give his opinion whether the admission into Congress of the representatives from Tennessee would tend to encourage the loyal people of Tennessee and strengthen the feeling of loyalty in that State, replied as follows:

I think the delegation from the State of Tennessee should be admitted into Congress for the reason that that State, of her own accord, has complied with every instruction of the President, and has done all that it was believed would be necessary for her to do in order to gain admission into Congress All that they have done with their own accord in Tennessee. They have repudiated the rebel debt; they have abolished slavery, and also adopted the Constitutional Amendment upon that subject; they have passed a franchise law prohibiting from voting every man who has been engaged in the rebellion, I believe they have now passed a bill giving the negro the right to testify in the courts; the members elected to Congress can take the test oath, both Senators and Representatives. If their Representatives shall be admitted into Congress, it will be a precedent for all the Southern States. They can see at once the reasons why the Tennessee members are admitted, and that if they expect their members to be admitted they must do as she has done."

By Mr. Grimes—Q. You have answered the inquiry of Mr. Grider in regard to the propriety of admitting into Congress the delegation from Tennessee; state, if you please, whether if her delegation should be admitted into Congress it would be safe for martial law to be then abrogated in the State of Tennessee? A.—I would not abrogate it just yet.

Q.—Would you recommend the abolition of the Freedmen's Bureau in that State? A.—Not yet.

Q.—Even if the Tennessee delegation should be admitted into Congress? A.—No sir.

THE REBEL ELEMENT AND A NEW REBELLION.

General Thomas' evidence was continued as follows:

Q.—You also stated as a reason why, in your opinion, the State of Tennessee ought to be represented in Congress, that in case that was done the rebel people would abandon their hopes of another outbreak. Have you any reason to believe that they still entertain the opinion, or that any considerable portion of them do, that there will be another outbreak? A.—I have received communications from various persons in the South that there was an understanding among the rebels, and perhaps organizations formed or forming, for the purpose of gaining as many advantages for themselves as possible, and I have heard that it is also intimated that these men are very anxious and would do all in their power to involve the United States in a foreign war, so that if a favorable opportunity should offer, they might turn against the Government of the United States again. I do not think they will ever again attempt an outbreak on their own account, because they all admit that they had a fair trial in the late rebellion, and got thoroughly worsted. There is no doubt but what there is a universal disposition among the rebels in the South to embarrass the Government in its administration if they can, so as to gain as many advantages for themselves as possible.

Q —In what could these advantages aid them in breaking up the Government? A.—They wish to be recognized as citizens of the United States, with the same rights that they had before the war.

Q —How can they do that—by involving us in a war with England or France, in which they would take part against us? A.—In that event, their desire is to re-establish the Southern Confederacy; they have not yet given up their desire for a separate Government, and if they have an opportunity to strike for it again they will do so.

Q —Does this intelligence in regard to these organizations reach you from such authentic sources as to command your belief of their existence? A.—Yes, sir; it comes from very reliable men.

HOW THE REBELS FEEL TOWARD JOHNSON.—A leading rebel of Middle Tennessee, whose lips were unsealed not long since by the potent influence of wine, was asked what he actually thought of the President's policy toward the secessionists. The rebel replied: "To tell you what I really think, I always did believe that Andy Johnson was a d—d old scoundrel, and I never had any faith in him, but he is doing us service just now, and I support him."—Nashville Union and Times.

This "leading rebel of Middle Tennessee" expresses the real feelings of all genuine Copperheads and secessionists who are now splitting their throats in shouting his praise. At heart they hate him as much as they do Governor Brownlow, but it is their policy to puff him to the skies, make all sorts of protestations of love and fealty in order to blind his eyes, win him over and use him This game was played on John Tyler to perfection. Oh, how the Democracy loved and adored him! how they passed resolutions in their meetings indorsing him, and promising him their undying support. The poor fool swallowed the bait, hook and all The Copperheads and rebels are fishing for Andy Johnson with the same hook, with similar bait, and he is nibbling. Will he bite? Tyler did, and was caught by the gills While he lived thereafter he was like Randolph's putrid mackerel by moonlight.—Chicago Tribune

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH —Of this celebrated performance the New York Tribune says:

Most of the reports of the President's speech sent out abroad were carefully dressed up so as not to be too offensive to the sensibilities of decent people The most accurate is published by the Washington Chronicle, but even this does not come up to the truth It leaves out the many interruptions by men among the crowd, such as "Give it to them Andy" "Hit them again Mr President" "Give them hell, Andy," and similar exclamations. The President's manner was very violent. He gnashed his teeth and spoke in a loud voice, and in a boisterous manner The whole meeting had the character of a Tammany Hall performance on a night before election It is said that the President is really possessed with the the truly ludicrous idea of being in danger of assassination and that this idea is disturbing his brain very considerably Of course the Presidential hallucination is creating much amusement in Congressional circles, for the idea that Stevens, Sumner and Wendell Phillips should be conspiring for the President's assassination is looked upon as so supremely childish as to modify the ill temper, which otherwise the hysteric remarks of the President would have excited

PETER DENYING HIS MASTER —According to the Herald, the Columbia county Democrats endorsed Jefferson Davis in their County Convention. The conscience-stricken Review squirms like a scotched snake, and says the statement is a typographical error No use, Mr. Review, you and your party have endorsed him so thoroughly for about four or five years that you might as well stick to him for decency's sake Don't abandon your landmarks!—Oregon Sentinel.

Sayings of the Press.

The Commercial's Washington special says The President told a Congressman on Saturday that he regarded Louisiana more loyal than she had been since her birth, and South Carolina more loyal than she had been for thirty years.

The New York News called upon the populace to rally to the "rescue of the fair fame of their Chief Magistrate" It seems a great pity that the News didn't think of it three or four years ago, when Andrew Johnson's family and friends in Tennessee were being hunted to death by rebels A few words from the News to its rebel friends at that time would have been of service

The New York Tribune, in a leading editorial, speaks as follows of Wendell Phillips "That Mr Phillips has to day his head on his shoulders and is at liberty to speak in public, he owes to those Abolitionists who have refused to follow his lead and who are thereby exposed to his vituperation"

The Columbus (Ohio) Herald says that of the two hundred and sixteen State flags presented to Ohio State Volunteers previous to their marching to the front, all will be returned except four lost in battle Many of them are mere threads—tattered and torn into mere ribbons. When all the regiments have returned, these colors will be presented to the State with appropriate ceremonies

The Southern Presbyterian, published at Columbia, South Carolina, speaking of slavery, says "So far as we ourselves are concerned, we are glad that the institution is overthrown. We feel that we have been emancipated from an onerous and intolerable burden, without incurring any responsibility as to the future destiny of the negroes

When President Johnson said traitors, in the work of reconstruction, should take a back seat, what did he mean? A front seat with a back to it.

The N Y. Tribune says: The President felicitously suggests that Forney is a dead duck. We thought he would find him game.

The Chicago Republican, since the President got among his present copperhead friends, says: "The President stands in mortal fear of his life. In his harangue to the mob he charges the men who have opposed his policy with "having assassinations brooding in their bosoms," and asks "if one martyr will not suffice, if the blood of Lincoln was not a sufficient sacrifice, if another victim must be stricken down in his place" Mr. Johnson may dismiss his fears, he has passed the point of danger. The only men capable of such deeds he can count hereafter among his friends. The spirit that moves men to strive for the protection of the poor, the lowly, and the weak, is not the spirit that incites to murder."

An exchange says of Franklin Pierce:

"This individual, whose appropriate place in history should be in the chapter of accidents, has been again heard from. His last conspicuous appearance in public, was in his infamous letter of 1861, to Jeff. Davis, pledging him the sympathy and aid of Northern Copperheads in the work of destroying the Government. Now he comes forward in the Democratic State Convention of New Hampshire, and other Copperhead gatherings, to proclaim himself and his friends as co workers with the President and his peculiar system of reconstruction. It is worthy of note that every traitor, every rebel, and every rebel sympathizer, is a co worker of the President."

The New York Tribune of March 6th, says

We have published the testimony of three witnesses to the fact that the President, before the introduction of the Freedmen's Bureau Bill in the Senate, gave to that measure his entire approval We now add the evidence of a fourth—the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune

"While Trumbull had the Freedmen's Bureau and Civil Rights Bills in preparation, he had long consultations with the President as to the provisions to be incorporated in them, and strove to conform to the suggestions of the Executive, in order to make sure of his approbation of the measures after their passage through Congress. Trumbull was fully satisfied, by the President's assurance to him, that he had succeeded in this, and that they would receive the formal Executive indorsement at the proper time. His surprise at the veto may be imagined."

We believe it to be true that to others beside General Howard and Senator Trumbull the President declared his satisfaction with the Freedmen's Bureau Bill. When did he change his opinion, and why?

The conflict between the Saints and Gentiles in Utah waxes warm and warmer daily The Salt Lake Vedette, the organ of the outside barbarians, referring to Brigham and his flock, says:

The loyal element of Utah is beginning to thoroughly understand that it cannot occupy any middle ground in treating with the church leaders. With this knowledge, this element is rapidly consolidating its strength—by no means desirable—and preparing for the grand moral conflict which will soon triumph and free the people of Utah from their oppressors

Speaking of holding the ground gained by the collapse of the rebellion, the Yreka Journal says:

Presidents ought to be more consistent. Union men ought not to get scared at this cry of "Radicals" We like the term Radical better than we do Conservative. We remember that the Radicals went down to the front and smote the rebels on a hundred battlefields, while the Conservatives staid at home and growled and howled, and grumbled at the Government, and cursed the soldiers of the Union, and rejoiced at the success of treason, and lifted up their voices and wept when the Confederacy was shifted into oblivion The Conservatives who then called the army, Lincoln hirelings, now call Congress the Radicals. Out upon Conservatism—we want none of it. It is one half cowardice and the other half treason."

LEFFEL'S

American Double Turbine Water Wheel

IS NOW MANUFACTURED BY THE OREGON IRON Works, in the city of Portland, and orders for the same can be filled immediately. We have a small supply of the different sizes, from 10 inches to 48 inches in diameter. That we may know the proper sized wheel you require, measure your water in the following way: Take the width of the stream, the average depth, and the distance it flows in a minute.

All the wheels now in use give universal satisfaction. Both the construction of the wheel and its performance, commend it to the better judgment of all minds capable of appreciating the highest development of mechanical construction Therefore it has conquered the most violent opposition.

This wheel is especially adapted to mining purposes It is light, and can be easily packed into the mountains. Wheels weighing from 100 to 300 pounds will yield from 10 to 40 horse power, under a head of 25 or 30 feet. They are the cheapest wheel to set up known, as they are so arranged as to produce the greatest power possible from the water used.

ALLEN'S

LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pain and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing disease of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies), or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.
